

To Whom Should I Give

by Rev. Stephen Towles (August 30, 2009)

We can only give what we possess.
Nothing more or nothing less.
And giving isn't optional,
Even if we are in a mess.

We give to others all the time,
With every thought, word and deed.
So what are you giving,
Are you giving what you need?

We know it all comes back to us,
That is the spiritual law.
We know we have a conscious choice,
Of this we must be in awe.

So we ask for spiritual understanding,
A revelation of the Truth of our being.
Especially in difficult moments,
So we are clear of what we are seeing.

We want the seeds we are planting,
To be free of the weeds of despair.
For they are what we give to others,
Especially to those for whom we care.

So be conscious of what you are feeling,
Be clear what you wish to express.
Allow spirit to transform these emotions,
So you give more good to those who have less.

And the seeds you will have planted,
Will be good ones that grow tall and strong.
In the minds and hearts of our people,
And come back in the form of a song.

For I believe that is our calling,
The mission that has been giving to all.
To give what we wish to receive,
In answer to the spiritual call.
